Reagan OKs bill

U.S. remains solvent

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan signed late Monday a revised version of a bill that would have rushed to him 10 hours after he vetoed its forerunner and shut down much of the government, true to a double promise he won't tolerate "business as usual."

Passage of the new measure ended, for now, a confrontation with Congress over Reagan's proposed veto, the layoffs of hundreds of thousands of federal employees and the closing of all "non-essential" offices.

Reagan appeared pleased about the new bill, even though it amounts to little in the way of savings before the budget issue must be addressed — or settled — anew. He signed it immediately, then headed for his ranch in California for a Thanksgiving vacation, a respite delayed by the budget battle.

Reagan told reporters he had been in his helicopter. "Of course, we now must come back and do the work all over again," he said. "But that's what is to be done."

He added, "you won't be tolerated."

The president believes "there is a lot more work to be done," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes related, looking forward to working with Congress on the issue.

Thus it appeared that within 24 hours of Reagan's shutdown order, the budget debate would be back to usual business.

Despite the infuriation of House Democratic leaders at Reagan's actions, the chamber agreed to a Republican-drafted compromise that would reopen the money tap that technically closed at 12:01 a.m. on Nov. 17.

The new, even more temporary, version of the bill Reagan vetoed will keep the government open until Dec. 15. Democrats had sought interim funding authority through Feb. 3, but the Republican bill, then passed 367-29.

With that, the measure sailed through the Senate 88 to 1, with only Democrat Alan Cranston of California voting against it.

It was Reagan's first veto, and a stunner. A bitterly divided Congress had passed the Senate's $228 billion emergency bill, expiring next July 15, after it had failed to rally 210 to 200.

Despite the infuriation of House Democratic leaders at Reagan's actions, the chamber agreed to a Re-

The House, to which Reagan requested that bill unsigned, made no effort to override the veto, but continued to work on shortening the expiration date.

Reagan said the Senate's effort to close "non-essential" offices and send an estimated 400,000 federal workers home were necessary because the budget was fiscally unsound.

But the president said, "Interest rates and inflation, and a continued loss of investment, jobs and economic growth are the real problems."

But Democrats scoffed at that, accusing the president of sheer political showmanship. They said the bill was an absolute 25 to 1 percent cut in federal spending. "It's an absolute and utter disgrace," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-
Mass., of the veto.

U hit worse in rivalry paint spree

The University of Utah apparently got the worst of the spray paint war that erupted last weekend at the BYU-1 football game.

Brian Nielsen, division manager of physical plant at the U of U, said the letters "BYU" and the score of the game were painted all over the U campus.

Several BYU and the game score were applied with spray paint and brushes, he said. "I don't think they missed anything."

Students in the block "U" at the Special Events Center and the Parks Building, the pillars on the administrative building "look really good in blue," he said.

Some of the painted buildings were sandblasted, making it extremely difficult to remove the paint without damaging the buildings, he said. For that reason, the U of U is experiencing significant problems to come in dealing with the least possible damage to the buildings. One of the experiments involves blasting the graffiti off with chemicals.

No damage to property was not restricted to the U of U. Mementos were also left at BYU, at an estimated cost of $3,000, said Roy Peterman, BYU public relations director.

Peterman said several two-foot-high red "U" and "vulgaries" appeared on the west overpass at the BYU-1, the Marriott Center and the north overpass by the law school.

The Tree of Life statue and the sidewalk in front of the BYU entrance at 1230 North were also "decorated" with spray paint. "The 'F' name in the stadium was painted completely red."

This year's vandalism is the worst the grounds crew has had to cope with since five or six years ago, he said.

Elaine A. Cannon to speak at Forum

Elaine A. Cannon, general president of the Young Women's organization of The Church of Jesus Christ of LDS, will speak at 10 a.m. in the Marriott Center.

The UU Chorale, under the direction of Dr. John C. Clegg, will provide music for the assembly.

President Cannon has served in administrative capacities in several organizations of The Church, including the Young Women's Board, Youth Correlation Committee, LDS Student Association, Instructional Development Department, and the Church Educational System.

KBYU-TV will broadcast the devotional at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday.

As a writer, President Cannon has edited church publications, written a daily column for the church's newspapers, published many books and contributed for national magazines.

A graduate in sociology from the University of Southern California, a lifelong resident of Salt Lake City, she belongs to several honorary societies and is listed in "Who's Who in America."

Winter storm may cause hard driving

Students planning to drive home for the Thanksgiving holidays should be prepared for unpredictable weather.

The National Weather Service in Salt Lake City is predicting a winter storm watch for Utah and predicts unsettled weather through the holidays.

The high temperature will be near 40 degrees with the low near 20 degrees.
The service also predicts snow further and rain, and with a possibility of 4 inches of snow in the valley.
For details, see forecast, page 2.

Language test policies differ who take the Language Test may receive different scores if they have the same test, because of different language policies, said almost, assistant to the academics vice president, and some changes in the department's grade for the test to be made. The changes will be made by the College Administration.

After a great deal of consistency to the departments will be present, said Harold Davis, dean of the College of Arts and all departments in the Humanities College. "We are looking at the amount of language testing at BYU," said Davis, "and settled in a language may purchase 16 hours of credit. Most departments require a student to enroll in a language class, usually an intermediate one, he said. Students receiving credit for a language not offered at BYU can receive credit without taking a class, he said. The grade for the test to be made, he said, will differ with each department. The grade received for the 16 units of credit is transferred from the test to the individual class. "The students would have taken it if they had not challenged the language," he said.

Davis said he had been aware of the policy for three years. "The policy would be to make sure the student receives a fair grade for each individual class," he said.

Mayor has hot idea

By MARK Wiest
Staff Writer

District heating may be used to warm up Provo City in the future, according to Mayor Fred Ferguson.

Ferguson, who spent a few weeks last summer studying European energy systems, made a presentation to the Utah chapter of the American Planning Association on the advantages of district heating. He indicated Provo City may one day want to utilize the heating system.

The three European countries Ferguson visited—West Germany, Denmark and Sweden—use district heating with high energy efficiency, he said.

Ferguson was working in Europe because the people believe in resource recovery," Ferguson said.

The district heating system involves the underground piping of hot water that is connected to a few buildings or generated at one.

The hot water is circulated throughout the city, thus reducing the consumption of energy loss, he said.

Ferguson said the city's steam heating system Provo City currently uses, the public takes for granted most of the energy that is used and wasted.

"Just because we have cheap energy doesn't mean we have to waste it," Ferguson said.

He said many Europeans would be amused by the energy that is wasted by Geneva Steel.

"The Europeans would see many ways of using the energy that is escaping from those smoke pipes," he said.

The mayor compared the steam system the United States uses to the hot-water system of Europe. He said that in the steam system, energy is lost when the steam is sent to the central generator before they begin to lose their energy efficiency.

With the hot-water system, the pipes can be 40 miles from the main generator before they begin to lose their power, he said.

Gary Liming, a member of the Provo City Council Development Office, said the city received an Urban Development Action Grant last spring to complete a study of the feasibility of converting any extra energy sources to district heating.

Cougar women spikers face Pepperdine tonight

After a disappointing loss to Utah last week, the women's volleyball team will face Pepperdine tonight at 7:30 in the Smith Fieldhouse. It will be the final match of the regular season for the Cougars.

Following the bout, the Cougars will meet the three teams yet to be named in the NCAA Southwest Sectionals.

Dec. 11-12. They will be competing for the national title. The Cougars are 13-10 overall, ranked sixth by the NCAA and winners of the Mountain Athletic Conference Championships.

The absence of injured American Lisa Connolly and power-hitter Brigitte McBride continue to be the Cougars' loss to the Utes in Salt Lake City on Wednesday night.

The Cougars' match string out to five games before the nationally ranked Cougars will face the unranked Utes in the hard-fought contest 15-14, 16-15, 16-14, 14-16, 14-16.

"It was a good team effort on the part of the team," said head coach Elaine Michaels. "This was probably the best match they've played all year."

"There was a lack of intensity on our part," Michaels added.

Wrestlers place first at tourney

Opening the season on a winning note, the BYU wrestling team grabbed first-place honors in the 1981 Mountain Invitational last week.

Chris Taylor and Neilson Gandy took the 130- and 136-pound class titles, while the 146- and 142-pound weight divisions, respectively, Taylor upset in the final round to knock him out of the NCAA tournament last season.

BYU had six wrestlers reach the finals, with Chad Tiechart, Bill Boyd and Robert Steele placing second.

Soccercats roll over Aggies 3-0

For the third straight year, the BYU Soccercats won the Beehive Cup by dumping the Utah State Aggies 3-0 Saturday at Haws Field.

Hughie Lopez was set up by Scott Siedson, who passed the ball across the front of the Aggies to Mark Hugo coming up the middle. Hugo made a diving header to give the Cougars' first score.

In the second half Scott again dribbled into USU territory, slotting the ball through the Aggies' net for an unusual goal.

Freshman Brent Easton rounded out the scoring with a goal in the 80th minute left in the match by scoring on an assist from fellow freshman Scott Isbell.

Y women cagers defeat ISU, USU

The BYU women's basketball team took third place in the Thanksgiving tournament last week with impressive victories over Idaho State and San Diego State.

The Cougars beat

Berkeley, 85-84, Cal-

Berkeley went on to win the tournament.

BYU's 6-foot-7 guard Valerie Cravens was named the Most Valuable Player award for the tournament. Cravens scored 11 points, grabbed 10 rebounds, had 15 assists and 17 steals for the Cougars.

Cougar forward Jackie McBride was selected for the all-tournament team along with guard Karen Thamer of Cal-Berkeley, Kathy Lightfoot of CSU and Beth Danischuk of USU.

The Cougars, 3-1 on the season, will face seventh-ranked UCLA and eighth-ranked San Diego State on the road this weekend.

AP ranks Cougar gridders 14th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bill Pitt and its five closest challengers are the top six places in the Associated Press football poll Monday, while Ohio State stuck into the Top Twenty and Arkansas which defeated rival Utah 56-28, moved up two to 14. The Cougars, led by the passing of Mike McElwain, received 377 votes and were ranked 12th in the UPI coaches poll. For his efforts Saturday, was to be a star. Today Show said this means Washington State, the team BYU is scheduled to play in San Diego Dec. 18, is likely to be a star.

It's been up the regular season against Penn State on Saturday and then meets Georgia in the Sugar Bowl. The Cougars are 8-2-1 with 365 points and a 1.294 of a possible 1.300 points. They are a panel of sports writers and sportscasters including Temple 36-4, Michigan State 20-3, and the unranked team in 14, concluded its first perfect regular season by defeating South Carolina 29-13.

Hisman race set for contest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The open and votes are already coming in for football's coveted Oscar—the Heisman. As in any election where the stakes are high, an intense lobbying is under way.

Winners will be announced by the Downtown Club on the evening of Dec. 5. Many already have been cast. These performances in the Heisman race will probably have the most at the outcome.

Others—writers and broadcasters—have their minds. It's one of the most hotly contested awards in years with five outstanding candidates. They are:

Allen, University of Southern California, who set some NCAA offensive records, and in his last season for more than a year, his total of 2,342 eclipsed the records of USC predecessors such as Mike Garrett, Jim Plunkett, Anthony Davis, Ricky Bell and others. Allen has won three Heismans Saturday against UCLA, he ran for 1,961 yards and 17 touchdowns. Heisman, Georgia tailback, who was sensational as a freshman on USC's national championship team last season, third in the 1980 Heisman voting. His 1,070 yards and 11 touchdowns were not as good as Allen's, but he has 24 points and one of the greatest natural ball carriers in the nation.

McElwain, Pittsburgh quarterback, whose career is carried the undefeated Panthers to the top in The Associated Press poll. For the year he has led the nation in passing completion percentage and has been a coach, Jackie Sherrill, tabs him as "the college quarterback I've ever seen."

McElwain, BYU quarterback, 6-foot-1, 185 pounds, a sophomore who, after being in 1979, replaced Marc Wilson and 91 yards in 1980, the first in the NCAA for a sophomore. He has 1,800 yards, missed two games and part of a third, a knee injury, he has thrown for 3,555 phenomenal exhibition—and finished his career at BYU with an NCAA record 36 yards.

Schlichter, Ohio State quarterback, a star at 6-3 and 200 pounds, has 1,400 yards and 12 touchdowns in his two years. Talked of as a prospect since he broke in as a freshman, he has approached 10,000 yards in total offense, passing for 2,492 yards and 15 touchdowns and two touchdowns in Saturday's win over Michigan.

1982 Heisman Sweepstakes, it's "Yule" time.

As the leading candidates, as unmentioned is worthy of the honor. It's just a question of who's more solidly within the framework of voting habits.
